

Course Title	Maritime Communications
Course Code	SCMCOM
Minimum Number of students	2
Maximum Number of students	6
Course Description	The Purpose of the course is to clear and precise communication is important in commercial shipping where clarity is needed to prevent misunderstandings. In emergency situations it is vital that the correct information is passed by whatever means available to ensure safety of lives and property. It is therefore necessary that both main and alternate means of communication can be used and understood by mariners globally.
Admission Requirements	Leaners embarking on this course of study should have completed a portion of their experiential training at sea or provide proof that they have served some sea-going capacity. The requirement is to ensure an understanding of flag etiquette and Marine Safety Information Signals.
Delivery Methodology	Classroom; in-house; computer based programme.
Duration	5 Days; 16 contact hours
Price	Please contact the course coordinator
Enquiry Contact	Maritime Studies: 031 -373 -2454